This hero and more coming in the near future!

BACKGROUND

All forests are alive, but lately some forests seem to be getting a bit... too alive. The odd pine wailing or a random birch flailing its branches about a bit has always been manageable: just keep your distance and retreat slowly. But now some hardwood species have taken to following people and voicing their critical opinions. Sooner or later they will want representation in an already chaotic Fey political landscape. One can only hope they root it down rather than tear it apart.

- CELESTIAL BEAR
- ARMOR BEAR
- SNIPER

This hero and more coming in the near future!

BACKGROUND

The change has been gradual but it is now obvious: the mushrooms are disappearing from the forest. While no-one is sure why this is happening, many fear the worst: the cave folk are back. After harvesting whole forests a few centuries ago with their unbound appetite they were exiled to the mountains and since then - nothing. But now even the most bad tasting mushrooms disappear or have telltale marks of greedy, grubby fingers all over them. Maybe they have found a way to stay out of sight, maybe they have found a way to control their hunger, maybe they just want to get their greedy fingers on every last mushroom of the forest.
